THE BUDGET (GENERAL), 2002-2003

SHRI PRANAB MUKHERJEE (West Bengal): Mr. Vice-Chairman, Sir, while participating in the general discussion on the General Budget for the year 2002-2003, I would like to congratulate my good, old friend,. Mr. Yashwant Sinha, surely, not only for presenting a very excellent Budget, but also for making a record, or, rather creating some sort of a record in Parliamentary politics, where the rate of mortality is very high, especially, in the Ministry of Finance. This is Mr. Yashwant Sinha's fifth Budget. But, practically speaking, it is his sixth Budget because he had presented a Budget in 1990-91, though that was not a full Budget and a Vote-on-Account. As I mentioned earlier, normally, in Parliamentary politics the rate of mortality is very high, especially in the Finance Ministry. But he has not only survived but also survived very boldly and made others to feel his presence.
